RE: PLEASE WRITE F.C.C. RULES TO MAINTAIN TRUE INTERNET NEUTRALITY

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

I am writing to let you know that I strongly support true Internet neutrality. I ask the F.C.C. of the U.S. Government to set rules for true Internet Neutrality. I am an American citizen and a resident of Maryland, and this is the first time I have ever written to the F.C.C. I feel compelled to do so because this issue is so important for the competitiveness and future viability of the American economy.

I oppose any system where companies can pay for faster access to users or will be able to take over more bandwidth. The reason I oppose "corporate subscribed speeds" is that such a system would help only large companies with large incomes, while simultaneously harming small entrepreneurial companies that are the backbone for new employment in the United States. Furthermore, losing Internet neutrality will harm American users who currently enjoy, use, and depend upon a wide and diverse Internet at equal speeds.

After such a deep recession, the F.C.C. should be on the side of all corporations, large and small, not just the large ones. Supporting true Internet Neutrality will establish a level playing field that maintains the ability of small entrepreneurial companies to access all Internet users and grow their companies and employees. The robustness of the American economy could rest upon your decision to support true Internet Neutrality.

Sincerely,

Margot S. Bass
